Mission, Dream & Purpose

The City of Light project is focused on creating an eco, self-sustaining society with ethical and spiritual values, based around the reconstruction of an 'Atlantean Healing Temple'. It's seen as a social experiment where each person involved feels an intrinsic part of the project whether they are a founder, a live in family member or part of the global support family.

This 'experiment' has the objective of finding a way that leads mankind towards a new path, a new way of living. It's a path where individually and collectively citizens give and share with others the gifts of our human earthly life whilst living in harmony, not only with other life on the planet but with Mother Earth herself.

Humanity has reached a turning point; for so many to continue to live unconsciously is no longer an option. Living consciously will be the choice of the courageous few. Only those open enough and willing enough to experience 'uncertainty' from a place of love, truth and trust will forge the path for a new harmonious civilisation. History has shown us that change happens in our moments of decision. It also shows that a decision by one person can set off a chain reaction as other people of similar values and outcomes join in to give life to a seed of an idea. When that idea is nourished it grows and as it grows it gains momentum. So what might seem impossible becomes possible.

This project is for those that feel a spiritual calling, an inner knowing that they are here for a greater purpose. One seed of wheat alone cannot make a loaf of bread yet a field of wheat can make millions of loaves. Today there are many individual spiritual seeds here on the planet, this project is here to act as a catalyst for those ready to make a difference whilst working together.

This vision is fluid and flexible, the story it tells is of an ideal. The truth is that it will take the combined will and determination of a few to be an example of what's possible and for it to gain momentum. Only a personal dedication to the growth of oneself, and a belief that from a conscious state it's possible, can this seed grow – we look forward to you sowing your seed in this field.

“A small group of thoughtful people could change the world. Indeed, it's the only thing that ever has” - Margaret Mead

The Glastonbury Experience (Visitors Centre)

Approaching ‘The Glastonbury Experience’ I’m wondering what to expect, I’ve heard much about the City of Light and inside I’m feeling not only curious, I’m expectant and also somewhat healthily excited. Having read the ‘City of Light’ vision I’m certainly feeling ‘a spiritual calling’. And although I am not really sure what it is, it feels as though I’m following an intuitive thought deep inside my heart. My journey to this point in my earth life has not been without challenge and over time with some help, I have come to see this is all part of my path, my human life journey.

Now fully aware of my third and fourth dimensional self, my ego self, duality and the chemistry my emotions create inside my own earth vessel, I am also acutely aware of the unconscious reactions my body seems to automatically make without my being able to control it. Thankfully I am now also aware of the bigger part of me, the part free of negative emotionality and the joyous and love filled experience I can create almost on demand, providing of course I don’t allow my senses to connect with and make meaning of my filtered eternal experience.

Ah this is it, turning the corner at the bottom of Glastonbury High Street, I’m catching the first glimpse of ‘The City of Light Experience’ and I can feel immediately its energy and like gravity it is pulling me towards it. Externally the building looks vibrant and inviting, known as ‘The Archangel Michael Centre’ it’s a glistening white temple with purple signage making it stand out from the other buildings. It feels odd at first, that this beautiful building is in some way connecting to an inner part of me that I know well yet don’t experience often and I feel immediately ‘at home’.

I am inside the reception area now which exudes a wonderful loving energy. Firstly I am drawn to ‘The Venus Love Crystal’ a giant rose quartz apparently set by the doorway to protect the temple just as the Atlanteans did all those eons ago. My ears prick up to the sound of a piano playing softly in the background filling the air with gentle harmonies, which, hold on a moment, is being played by a plant! Yes, seemingly here already is a demonstration of the different dimensions we as humans have access to, yet many may not be consciously aware of. Crystals of course reside in the mineral kingdom of the first dimension and plants dwell in the second dimension, yet both of these dimensions are an intrinsic part of our human life. WOW this is an education already and I’m only in the reception. It’s quite busy with people; a couple at the desk are being helped by what I can only imagine a real Goddess looks like. She is dressed in a beautiful priestess like dress with wondrous flowing long hair; you can feel her amazing energy just by standing near to her. The place is decorated with beautiful painted walls adorned with quite plain yet very clear notice boards giving simple, clear information about the centre. There is a young man standing close by one of the information boards and there are headsets hanging from hooks on the wall that seemingly tell you more about how everything works here. I am putting on some headphones now and a voice says.

“Welcome to ‘The City of Light Glastonbury Experience’. The purpose of this centre is to both inform you as well as potentially educate you to become aware of the fullest potential of your human experience. We have all heard of enlightenment and possibly about expanding your consciousness, but what does this mean and what needs to happen for you to have these experiences. Think of your life, just for a moment, as a jigsaw puzzle that you have never been able to complete. It’s a puzzle clouded with unanswered questions and you have never quite understood how to fit all the pieces together. Well let me share with you right now, that’s what this ‘Experience’ is all about and if you play full out and share some time here with us, suddenly the pieces of the puzzle will all fit together and the mysteries of life, why we are here and what happens after we pass, will all become clear.

You may be aware we have just entered the Age of Aquarius and it is bringing with it great change, some we have seen already and more are on their way. These changes are likely to have a profound effect on the combined human experience the way we live, and how we share, with all other life forms, our beautiful planet, 'Mother Earth'.

Of the 7 billion people sharing the planet at this time it's said some are here on a special mission. These souls are known as 'seeds' and are part of what is known jointly as 'The Ascension Team'. They are here right now to help where they can with current and future challenges as they occur. Many of these people will not know each other nor be aware that they are even part of this team but they will, if they have not already, feel a strong sense of 'a spiritual calling'. Many may feel 'a calling' to become a part of 'The City of Light Project' which is being created by 'seeds' in the 'ascension team' right here in this building.

Could it be synchronicity has brought you to this very time and place for a reason? Could you be a 'seed'? Your journey through the centre could help you decide that by sharing time at one or more of the daily sessions here in our miniature 'Atlantean Healing Temple' or even in a private session in the 'Healing Room'. There are sessions here every day each lasting around an hour or two. Each session will bring you to a greater awareness and understanding of Mother Earth and Humanity's ascension to a higher consciousness and a higher dimension... so please feel free to book your place and join in.

As you will notice, on the opposite wall you can see a giant jigsaw and on each piece of the puzzle you will find information about individual sessions, so please have a read. You can book any one or any number of sessions that you are drawn to; you can even book to see them all. Each we trust will help you gain clarity and understanding about 'what's next' for humanity as well as for yourself on your own personal journey. You can even book to have dinner here at the centre around our dining table where many take time for a unique sharing of food and thoughts receiving answers to their questions. Entrance here to everything at the 'Experience' is free; all we ask is for a contribution, which all goes to the 'City of Light Foundation Fund'. The Foundation is tasked with bringing 'The City of Light' project into physical reality. Each session has a suggested minimum contribution which goes to meet the running costs of the centre.

Many thanks for coming and sharing time and we trust you connect with the mission, Many Blessings."

Well, that was so interesting I think I'll find out more. The lady at the desk is free now...

“Hi, I've just listened to the headset there and am fascinated, I read ‘The City of Light’ book and felt compelled to come and find out more here in Glastonbury, what do I need to do to really learn more from coming here? I'm staying in Glastonbury for the next few days...”

“Well, hello and welcome”, she said, “thank you for your interest and coming to share time with us. The ‘Glastonbury Experience’ is laid out in such a way that it can become a place of learning for anyone at whatever stage of awareness; you can learn more about the different dimensional opportunities open to us all and how we can experience them... and much more. It's also a place of healing where you get the opportunity to start healing your unconscious negative past and ultimately let it go; you can experience being in the moment and how to have a future filled only with the energy of love itself.

As you may have heard the centre has a daily event program, each event lasting an hour or two and each session has either a video or a live speaker. The sessions teach how humans live a third dimensional experience and where our journey may be heading. There is information as to how you can get involved in ‘The City of Light’ project and each session informs you of what you can do to support the project if indeed you are drawn to do so. You are always welcome to stay on afterwards to share time, or have a drink and discuss what you can do going forward.

The jigsaw here on the wall shows the different events and the times they are being shown. We advise booking but it's ok to just turn up, we suggest you get here 15 minutes before the session starts.

The 'temple' is primarily for meditation, contemplation and prayer. Each session here also lasts an hour or so and there are a wide variety of meditations to meet everyone's needs including guided ones for a complete beginner. We also show films on certain evenings, all films with a message. The month's film list is here next to the jigsaw. Everything can be booked here with me. The 'Healing Room' is for private time with one of our healers. The healing sessions are the same as those that will be performed at 'The City of Light'. There are three basic types of healings; 'crystal healing', 'sound healing' or 'journeys' as well as 'readings' from a very special set of cards of which we, as far as we know, are the only ones here in the UK sharing these special messages from your divine self. All of these sessions can take you inside of yourself to heal past wounds, be they physical, mental, emotional or spiritual; as well as bring clarity to your 'Now' world and decisions you are making."

“Wow, that’s brilliant”, I said, “thank you... I’ll take a look then at the program and decide what I want to participate in. I’ll be back in a moment, oh by the way, how much do all the sessions cost?”

She replied, “We ask only for a contribution. The purpose of the centre is to raise awareness of ‘The City of Light’ project and to find those interested in getting involved. The project needs people willing to give their time and expertise to help move the project forward and currently we are looking for people with a variety of skills. There’s a list here on the board. We are also working to financially fund the creation of the ‘City of Light UK’ project; we are monitoring the amount of money donated, as well as that pledged for the future, and we are getting nearer every day to the target we believe we need to get things underway. So all we ask for is a contribution. The amount is constantly moving up and as you contribute you will be able to see the numbers change in an upward direction. We do have minimum recommendations calculated on what we need to keep the visitor centre open; there is no maximum, so please contribute whatever you can, the faster we reach the target the faster we can put the first stone in the ground.”

Well, I thought, I definitely feel like I would love to experience more and know more about the project. I have decided to take a look at all the sessions and get myself booked in.

“Oh, and by the way,” she said, “don’t forget you can have dinner with us in the evening. Dinner starts at 7.30 pm and we always have gorgeous healthy food. More importantly, our dinners are another opportunity to share, interact with like-minded people and to expand your awareness. The evening ends with an open Q&A session at around 9 – 9.30 pm or later!”

“Thank you so much,” I replied, “I really can’t wait to join in this great adventure, I’ll see you on the inside...”

Part 1 – The Vision

Chapter 1

The Purpose of This Life

The journey of mankind has led humans to reach many a crossroad throughout its experience here on Mother Earth. Depending on whether you are a believer in Darwin's unproven yet amazing work 'The Origin of Species', or indeed you believe humans came to inhabit our beautiful planet by some other means, one thing is for sure, there have been many pivotal times in human history where humanity reached a crossroads and collectively, even if we followed a leader or leaders, we chose one direction over another.

The result of these selections of a path over time has led us to grow and develop as a species in a certain way. One great, yet for many unanswered question is, are we a human being having a spiritual experience or a spiritual being having a human experience? The current state of humanity suggests that over time the former has held sway and thus that path has been, albeit somewhat unconsciously, the path that has been followed. This has led us to the structure of life and civilisation that we experience across the planet today which, whilst vast and varied, broadly speaking each culture operates the same way. Simply put, humans have on mass become individualised, ego driven, left brain operators utilising logic and fear as their key operating system which has resulted in the level of awareness, or consciousness, of the average human being becoming very low compared to their potential.

Today we, the people of the planet, find ourselves on a road that could well turn out to be a dead end that of materialism based around the so called power of the dollar in our pocket. Sadly the vast majority of people are either oblivious of this or are choosing not to focus on its impending demise and carry on regardless!

To this point in human time logic has prevailed and found a solution to each and every hurdle that has presented itself so far; whether it has been a tyrant, monetary or political collapse, or wars and killings over race, religion or manmade boundaries. Yet, bit by bit, it is becoming more and more obvious that the pathway ahead is no longer clear and a new way has to be found.

‘The City of Light’ represents an opportunity to place the first stone in the ground to a new way of existence for humanity. This way is a life of peace, love, truth and fulfilment for each and every inhabitant.

Life, as we see throughout our own lives, goes in cycles, whether it is spring to summer or autumn to winter or hot to cold or cold to hot. In the bigger scheme of things change is of course massively slow with our own single lifetime all but a speck in time.

There have been many prophecies throughout time of the end of time, none more poignant currently than those around the meaning attached to the Mayan calendar coming to an abrupt end in December 2012.

The world, according to Dr David Hawkins, and as explained in his great work 'Power Vs Force', is currently divided with approximately 96% of people who live a left brain, ego logic, lower level unconscious physical material experience and see science, knowledge, power and money as the way forward. The other 4% see things through the experience of a higher level of conscious consciousness or super-consciousness. This is where truth and real love prevail in a world beyond science, where there is less need for logic as true connection to source through intuition and the expanded self connects them directly to all that is and all that knows everything the creator designed.

If Dr David Hawkins numbers are correct it means that there are, living today on Mother Earth, approximately 250 million people that live experiencing love and truth consciousness in their daily life and who are not driven by their lower ego self. These people are what you might call 'old souls', they have been on many journeys to the earth plane, and having ascended they have decided to return again to help and support others raise their levels of consciousness.

It is said we are all 'light workers' yet it seems that the 4% are the active ones, the self-realised, the ones that have chosen this timeframe to be here for the specific purpose of seeing humanity through the coming changes and challenges where fear will no doubt be heightened in so many others.

It is also said through a channelling by Michelle Eloff that at present on Mother Earth there are some 8 million 'seeds'; souls that were incarnated the last time humanity found itself upon the precipice at the fall of Atlantis. These souls have incarnated once again at this very specific time, they are here to awaken now to guide and support the people of the planet to live together with the experience of a new higher consciousness in harmony.

Are you one of those seeds? If you are reading this right now it is most likely that you are. Could this moment be 'your calling to awaken'? There is no time left to sit on the fence, your attention and action are needed right now...

Is This - The Purpose of This Life?

Chapter 2

Vision of 'The City'

The vision is simple, the creation of 'The City of Light'! So what does that look like? Well, there are three distinct parts, its people and their energy, its physical structure and then the way it all interacts and fits neatly together with nature in a self-sufficient manor.

Let's start with its physical structure. At the heart of the City is its Temple. This temple is a place of healing and meditation as well as quiet contemplation and prayer. It houses a 'Healing School' for those studying to become healing priests or priestesses close by and is directly connected to the 'Exhibition Centre'.

The Exhibition has been designed to share, with outsiders that are interested in the workings of the Temple and the City, the principles and ethos of 'The City of Light' allowing them to learn and understand the difference between living an unconscious ego life and a conscious life of truth and love within the bounds of the collective creative laws.

Buildings surrounding the Temple are pyramid shaped; the large pyramids form the communal spaces for eating, meditation and sharing time together, the smaller ones are homes for residents, those in schooling, and for visitors undergoing healing at the Temple.

The land surrounding the City is abundant, self-sustaining and capable of supporting an ever growing number of inhabitants and visitors. Its location is far away from other civilisation, somewhat isolated and in beautiful natural surroundings.

The City is completely eco-friendly and has a neutral carbon footprint with all the buildings having been designed and built specifically with this in mind, Everything has also been designed to work with nature, self-sufficiency not only covers the energy needs of the dwellings it covers the energy needs of each individual in so much as what they put past their lips to bring energy to their being. All of this enables the City to exude great loving energy; everything and everyone in it feels loved and nurtured.

The gardens surrounding the central core of the City, 'The Temple', the 'Exhibition Centre' and the large 'Community Pyramids' are cared for and nourished in a way that exudes everything that is, allowing the City's people to be at one, not only with themselves but everyone and everything in the environment from the largest tree to the smallest insect.

As we see it there will be two types of dwelling that house the ever expanding participants in this living family experiment. Those that already have a partner or family have the opportunity to have their own land, a hectare in size, where they not only have their own home they also grow and propagate their own foods meaning they have the opportunity to be totally connected to 'Mother Earth' in an individualised way as well as being part of the whole community.

People that come to the project single and not in a relationship will be able to live in 'family units' of around 15 – 20 people in specially designed eco buildings where every aspect of living a multidimensional life is considered, each having the privacy of their own room and private facilities whilst sharing other aspects of the family home together with the other residents.

The growing of our own food will still be of paramount importance even in the family home gardens, where people can have their personal plots to grow their own special foods and herbs and of course the larger area which will have shared responsibility.

The people are not segregated in any way by class, creed, colour or wealth as in 'The City of Light' none of these have importance and indeed the City is a moneyless environment. Everyone is here to assist and help themselves by sharing and healing in order to help raise each other's level of consciousness.

In the early years of the City life, a time we see as transitional there are four districts in the City each geometrically connected to each other by an underground network of tunnels that lead to the heart of the City itself, the temple and community buildings. Each area exudes its own conscious energy and each person living in the City is committed to helping those with less expanded consciousness to expand theirs.

The first dwelling area is to the east of the city and the pyramids here are the dwellings of the 'Red Robes'. These people are City visitors and they hold a special place in the City's heart as they are here for healing and to expand their consciousness. The 'Red Robes' are also people wishing to become long-term inhabitants of the City and they are sharing time with us, in our own special form of 'Novice-Hood', deciding if living long term in 'The City Of Light' is indeed for them. They join in joyously helping provide the daily working needs of the City, they nurture the land, the flora, and the fauna as well as doing general tasks that ensure the City remains in the energy of Love & Truth. Of course when they have a session at the Temple for healing they are not required to work 'for the greater good' as well as work on you is seen in the City as equally important.

The second dwelling area is to the south of the City and the Pyramid dwellings here house the 'Orange Robes'. These people have elected and been selected to become citizens of 'The City of Light'. After time in the east of the City their initiation sees them move south, the journey before them set to lead them to even higher levels of consciousness. The 'Orange Robes' may not have yet totally healed their past, and to different degrees they may still be living partly an unconscious experience, but their desire to grow and heal their old programmed wounds is their paramount intention.

They live, work and share their time whilst giving their love generously to nurture both the City and its visitors. They serve wherever a need is required be it at the Exhibition, in the Temple, in the kitchen or working with Mother Earth for the good of all; they also spend time mentoring those in 'Red Robes'.

Each 'Orange Robe' is committed to their own personal growth and they share time with their own personal 'Green Robe' mentor who has already transcended to live consciously in order to help others. Mentors actively help heal and expand others consciousness, sharing of their time openly and willingly.

To the North of the City live the 'Green Robes'; those who have transcended their old ego ways, who live consciously in the moment and who are committed to serving both the City, its people, and its visitors at the highest level. Here live the priests and priestesses, the coaches, and those with healing powers whose time is spent mostly in the Temple helping others through the healing processes. They are also personal mentors to the 'Orange Robes' and are an example of what's possible to the City's inhabitants and visitors alike; they share time and love wherever and whenever it is needed. 'Green Robes' truly practice what they preach.

Finally to the west of the City live the 'Purple Robes'; those who have transcended through conscious living to experience super conscious living. These people are the high priests and priestesses of the City and some consider them the elders or the wise people. They connect through channels to the divine, sharing their energy and wisdom as guides and servants to City life, ensuring that the City is growing with Truth & Love at the centre of the City's consciousness. Their wisdom enables great decisions to be made that benefit everyone and they make themselves available for personal and group sharing of their light, love and wisdom, in abundance, both in the great pyramids as well as in the Temple.

In essence, whilst on the surface this might look like a hierarchy it is definitely not the intention for it to be so as each City dweller is of 'the one' and is responsible for his or her own personal state as well as holding a great energy of respect for self and others.

The different colours or places of residence do not in any way represent superiority, they represents our acceptance of our own level of consciousness which we display as an individualised person whilst knowing we are part of the whole. Let us remember that it is the coming together of all the colours that creates the great light that we all are.

The robes colours also represent a transitional period for the City as well as each inhabitant as each person raises their awareness. We have to remember that here in the City no one is judging anyone else as to what part of the City they reside in. In fact each person is self-determining where they live after their initial settling in period.

Let us remember also that each person has white robes for all ceremonies and community gatherings so the different coloured robes are not about creating separation, they are merely a way to self-determine where we are on our individual path in truth. It's a setting of an intention to continue our own personal growth towards living our multidimensional self.

Eventually as all of humanity ascends to a higher dimensional way of being, expanded 5D humans will live and share telepathically from their light bodies, so in the longer term as we all raise our consciousness, there will be no need for any such colour system.

Knowing it's important to nourish ourselves with stillness and connection to all that is, time away from City life is considered very important. We certainly don't wish for our energy to drop because there is too much 'doing to be done'.

'Being time' is taken a little distance away from the city; everyone experiences time on a beautiful journey to a quiet space where the water, air and Mother Earth are even more fresh, clear and re-viving. The pyramids here are of a special design that allows us to connect straight into the grid, regenerating and rejuvenating all of our self.

We Are Not Alone

One of the lowest of the ego fears is 'aleness'. If we look at this from a dimensional viewpoint we as humans are able to gain access and experience five dimensions yet the daily waking life for the average human being is only that of the third dimension. In essence, in this third dimension, as the un-awakened look out at the world it's as though they are wearing blinkers like a blinkered horse, only seeing what they see and not knowing or understanding there is another much larger part of themselves outside of the blinkers.

These blinkered people often see themselves as separate and alone and so they have a desire for their need for love and connection to be met by others. This need, when it is met from the outside, gives them the illusion of love, what you might call intellectual love. This causes many, in fact most, to end up living a human 'victim' experience as they, instead of living at cause, unintentionally put themselves at effect of what they see as others and the world 'doing to them'.

The conscious 'victim state' feeds the ego self as it continually utilises its past experiences as references. The ego attempts to utilise these old past references, stored in the first and second dimensional unconscious self, to stake out a future that is safe and secure. We refer to this as ‘the 3D game’ that many have come to play here on Mother Earth.

In essence the third dimension is a dimension where we experience duality and separation in order that we experience ‘what love is not’ and so that we learn more of what ‘love is’.

The fourth dimension and all sub parts of it become our human sleep time consciousness; this is a time when our physical body closes down to the 3D world consciousness and becomes ‘unconscious’ in the process, giving itself time to rejuvenate and regenerate. The 4D paradigm has different rules, so ‘dream time’ seems very different to us yet it’s through here that we need to travel to find our way to the fifth dimension; the place of truth and unconditional love in which ‘The City of Light’ holds its energy.

Here in the fifth dimensional City we are never ‘alone’ as we live and share the oneness of all life together, where all is perfect, where all is exactly as it’s meant to be, and where we are guided in, and trust to, life. Our channels that communicate with those in the dimensions beyond assist and help us all on our journeys whilst here on Mother Earth.

Chapter 4

1st Step - Seed Community

It is said that the 8 million seeds are spread far and wide across Mother Earth and that the time has come for them to gather and work together.

Many have already started their work, sharing the message of a conscious life and empowering others towards mankind's destiny and a new path of co-creation and living with what is often described as the 'creators law'.

Yet many find themselves challenged by the people around them; their colleagues, their friends and even their own families are often in fear of what they see as a somewhat outlandish view of the future and many even view it as ridiculous and even utopian and impossible to realise.

The seeds that grow and burst forth through the soil of consciousness withstand this 'pulling back' by others and they continually walk through their own uncertainties guided into certainty by their own inner power, knowing that this is their path, their future, their destiny.

As the seeds gather together they share everything of themselves; they share their resources, both spiritual and physical; they share their love, their wisdom, their openness and their joint vision of a new life, of a new way forward.

They know they will face difficult times ahead yet they are at peace within, knowing they are guided and that this is their divine Earthly Mission; they give of themselves totally without fear and without doubt, and without any judgement of those unable to do likewise.

The seeds pool their physical energies and give their time freely, they share their knowledge and skills openly and they also share their accumulated wealth. Their 3D monetary resources are much needed to build the foundations of the City within the current 3D world environment.

These resources are also needed to purchase all that is necessary for the City, during the transition between the dimensions, and during its evolution from needing outside resources to the ultimate, self-sufficiency. We envisage a future when we finally integrate the changes to a full 5D experience for all of its citizens, free of the need for money or externally sourced supplies.

The community comes together at the outset across the current 3D airwaves and eventually, as the City develops and its people learn the art of communication through 5D telepathy, the inhabitants read each other's auras and thoughts through the sharing of energy.

The first seeds come because of a knowing inside of themselves, they feel drawn; many have already awoken sufficiently to join in intuitively. Others, who may be slightly less awakened souls, join in more cautiously yet they feel the calling and are open to grow and expand their consciousness.

They have become willing to give of themselves freely to be amongst the founder pioneers of this great new 'City of Light' where our children and future generations can grow and develop together in harmony, peace, love and truth.

The founder seeds commit openly and with truth and trust in their hearts. They stand ready and prepared to be called into action at any time because their personal resources are needed or simply that they are needed to hold the space, to hold the energy, for those working on getting the City's foundations dug and the first stones laid in readiness for the first settlers to take up residence.

Do you feel a spiritual calling? Are you ready to commit? Then read on...more will be revealed as to the different ways you can get involved and support the creation of 'The City of Light'.

Chapter 5

2nd Step – The Ascension Team

For certain, those that get involved are considered to be on the ‘Ascension Team’. The core team or “Founders”, they are few in number yet crucial to the physical realisation of the City on Mother Earth. They are the channels and the grounded ones through whom the foundations take place on paper before the building begins.

Their task is a huge one, yet knowing this is their mission they give generously, helping to build a bigger team, openly doing all the preparation work that needs to be done in the current 3D environment to bring the City to physical fruition. They look to enlist seeds with specific skill sets learned through their lifetime in the 3D world.

The list is long and the work to be carried out vast and varied. If you feel the calling please check the list to see if your skills are needed on ‘The Ascension Team’.

Founders: These are an initial team of four which grows to greater numbers as is needed. Two are channels, two are visionary pioneers. Together these four people lay the first foundations out on-to paper as well as getting the message out to alert seeds ready and willing to participate.

Many people with great skills sets are required to bring the City to life, they fall into three sections outlined here. Do you fall into any of these brackets?

Planners	Fund Raisers	Supporters

City of Light Families: Also an important part of the ‘Ascension Team’ are tens of thousands of people in our support family who, as spiritual supporters give their energy and help the project into the physical just by being involved at whatever level feels right for them.

These people represent a great groundswell of humanity today, they are open and willing and looking to support the creation of this new way of living.

One of the biggest outcomes of the City is for those who are enlightened to support those seeking enlightenment. To meet this outcome, a ‘Support Family Programme’ has been created so no matter where you are in the world you can participate in the project by growing through the sharing of information, education, wisdom, and of course love and light itself.

The “Founders” have all agreed to share the depths of their knowledge and wisdom directly with the ‘Support Family’ on an on-going basis in exchange for a monthly donation that will go to help create, plan and build ‘The City of Light’.

Family members are already feel at one with each other and the project by belonging to ‘The City of Light Foundation’ knowing that they are never alone as they connect with other family members through the internet and by building local or national groups of likeminded people who can share and grow towards living a 5D experience.

Family Members can also place their names on a list of people wishing to be considered for ‘The First Settlers Group’ thus creating the opportunity of making ‘The City of Light’ their new home.

The future of humanity could depend on your decision to participate, are you ready?

Chapter 6

3rd Step – Preparation

The seeds ever expanding combined energy, skills and resources bring together ‘The Great Plan’ - the City on paper. Spellbinding drawings bring to life this expanded human vision of ‘life as it’s truly meant to be’ where people can live in the joy of the moment and where truth and unconditional love co-exist with the creators laws.

The City’s architecture, design and model form the core of the energy of the plan enabling an ever growing number of seeds on the periphery to open up to the possibility of a 5D human experience as it inspires them to share their loving energy by joining in and supporting in any way they can with the project.

Behind these drawings and plans live the quantity surveyors whose great skills create the physical needs in detail and ‘The List’ as it’s known. Yes, the list of everything that’s needed to dig the foundations, to lay the first stone, and to completing phase 1 of the City; everything needed to get the City ready for the first settlers group.

Whilst this is happening other gifted seeds have been searching for the perfect site for ‘The City of Light’ here in the UK. They have been using a mixture of knowledge and logic, eco and surveying skills, mixed in with their own intuition; tuned acutely into Mother Earth and the synchronic lines, and they are keen to both guide and deliver the perfect site and share harmoniously together in a 5D experience.

Other seeds are giving of themselves openly and untiringly raising both awareness of the City and the funds needed from the 3D world. They organise everything from local groups to a global community of seeds spreading the word of the great 'City of Light'. Their intuition and imagination has taken things beyond all previously known physical boundaries, their schemes and ideas are easily delivering the necessary resources to bring the City into the physical as they continually grow our UK and international 'Family'.

As the City's plans gain momentum a great documentary maker asks to follow, join in and film the progress of this momentous moment in human history. Tirelessly making endless films and takings photographs of each step of the path their work inspires even more seeds to take the images and allow them to be imprinted in their thoughts, hearts and souls and thus awaken them to take action and join in the transition process, their divine purpose for this incarnation.

With the paper plans firmly in the hands of 'The Building Team' and the perfect site secured the building leaders ready the workforce, the equipment, the tools and the materials needed to ceremonially dig the first foundation and lay the very first stone of ‘The City Of Light’.

Chapter 7

4th Step – Construction Phase 1

With construction underway, it's clear that this is no ordinary 'old world' 3D City. 'The City of Light' is a part of Mother Earth not separate from her as in the old paradigm. In essence the City is a complete sharing of energy, the old 'taking or giving to get' mentality, born out of a belief of separation and duality, is simply not to be seen anywhere.

The preparation team have done the most amazing job, every last detail has been considered from a sacred geometry to a complete eco way of thinking to the capturing of the natural beauty of the area, and especially how this whole City can be self-sustaining by growing all of its own food requirements. They have lived with it and nurtured it so that the inhabitants will all feel and experience all that is.

Work on two sites started simultaneously and it's a joy to see both 'The Temple' and the 'Giza Pyramid Replicas' place their footprint on Mother Earth. She welcomes them both openly knowing they are being built with great loving intention and extra care that, as great buildings and thus energy itself, all the components graciously fit together in harmony and respect of the nature that surrounds them.

The buildings rise quickly and with ease and as they take shape the building teams feel a deep inner sense of fulfilment knowing that they have played their individual part in this historic moment in human history.

A deep sense of purpose is shared by all of the team as they recognise the importance of the work they are carrying out each day. They feel a great knowing that, over the centuries to come, millions of people will enter these great structures for prayer, meditation, contemplation and healing as well as simple 'sharing time' in loving energy.

The Exhibition hall has also taken shape welcoming those drawn to seek a new way of conscious living. The great screens seem to be already sharing the message ingrained in them with the beautiful seats in the auditorium, whether they are full or empty.

Standing in the hall it's easy to sense an emotion filled audience watching in awe as they view images that finally help them fit the pieces of life's jigsaw together. Many tears are shed in this great hall, tears of 'letting go', tears of finally realising that the time has come to dispense with past programmes and tears of fears of the future. Many realise as they watch with a more open heart that it's finally time to relax and be at one, it's time to heal and time to grow and share openly in the energy of the 5D human experience.

Looking out across the open land far to the north, south, east and west the first of the small, self-contained, eco-friendly pyramid dwellings have been placed in position on their own hectare plots and the larger family homes are also in position; it's amazing to see a city grow where the residents all live in the great energy of a pyramid yet are all joined together so the inhabitants feel at one with each other and part of the whole. And, at the same time, it's incredible how different it feels living on a copper grid with a copper framed pyramid around you where everything has been constructed to fit neatly with the energy of Mother Earth.

The energy inside the dwellings has to be felt to be believed; it's such a great experience, no home has ever been developed like it. Dug into the ground and with an entrance that takes you down before taking you up inhabitants actually sleep in the centre of the pyramid itself so that they literally bask for hours in a high energy environment.

When people see the living quarters they are bemused as to how everything fits together so well and they are amazed at how a home that looks so small on the outside is actually so spacious inside. They love how every detail has been designed so beautifully in harmony and how whilst living is simple, the dwellings have such a real quality about them.

Each and every dwelling is kept in tip top condition as the residents takes complete responsibility for the energy of the space they inhabit; they also have unconditional respect for others who live around them as they do for future dwellers that may come to share in City life and live in this very same pyramid home.

Whilst the buildings take shape the communal landscapers are working endlessly with nature doing the necessary clipping, cutting and planting of all the trees, plants and bulbs that make up a major part of the City, each plant and tree specifically chosen for its sharing and giving of its fruits and special gifts they bring to share with humanity.

Some areas are left completely wild; some are created specifically to catch the eye of people as they move around the City from the Temple to the Great Pyramids or from the Exhibition Hall back to their small pyramid dwellings at the end of another love filled day.

Special gardens of meditation have been created for sharing, even though many will create their own on their very own piece of the City. This is many a hidden space of silence where people can sit in stillness or gather themselves in moments of low energy. There's nothing quite like basking with Mother Earth in times when a lower energy seems to have taken hold for a brief moment. Allowing that moment of connection with a plant, tree or a delicate flower normally brings us back to the moment without difficulty as we relax into and share the energy of all that life is.

'Water' features largely in the City and you are never far away from the sound of a waterfall, the stillness of a fish filled lake or even the magic of a pond brimming with all sorts of life both inside and all around it.

Benches on which to rest and daydream are abundant in the City, each one engraved with a special message from its creator or donator. Sitting there for a moment in time the inscriptions touch the soul and fill the heart as its meaning is digested and mulled over in the timeless 'City of Light'.

Seeing the first phase of the City come together it's obvious to us all that the designers, planners, builders and supporters have done a fantastic job and it's easy to see now how the City will grow over many sunsets and sunrises, almost effortlessly and without disruption to those living there already.

The design is so masterful; the core of the City is clearly there for the long term and the dwelling houses can spread easily further and further out as the population expands. Many say it reminds them of their past Native American Indian incarnation as they recognise its similarity to the teepees of their former life community.

The City planning has also taken into account much of the ancient wisdom, rites, rituals and sacred ceremonies of the ancient tribes, such as the Mayans, Hopi's and the other indigenous people of Mother Earth.

The project has seen every last detail considered and the planners have again to be applauded for their due diligence and insight into what is needed to firstly feed a healthy population and secondly to take the City towards its desire to become totally independent and self-sufficient.

Detailed attention has been given to the interaction between each person and Mother Earth and no more so that in the way we connect, share and become a part of her abundant nature through our eating habits and how we grow what we need to eat.

Lessons of the past have been learned; mass farming simply fails to meet the needs of the population without 'taking' from each other and our beautiful planet. There are many examples of living in total harmony with nature individually that bring us more in tune with every part of ourselves and the universe around us.

We have taken the lead from the amazing works of Vladimir Megre and his enchanting books 'The Ringing Cedars Series' which share the wisdom of 'Anastasia'. These books speak of utilising a more sacred and connected way to share our energy with the flora and fauna. They recommend that we all start to think differently which will lead us to be emotionally more conscious which in turn causes us to be more physically healthy, vibrant and connected to the love and wisdom of the expanded 5D human experience.

To this end we don't 'farm' we 'garden'! Incredibly the word farm, in Russian, means 'taking' whereas the word 'garden' has the love filled meaning of 'giving'. So all of the City inhabitants are in effect 'gardeners' and therefor 'givers' and each of them are sharing themselves with the plants and trees and sharing fruits with others.

Chapter 8

5th Step – First Settlers

The first settlers have been difficult to choose as so many have wanted to make their home in the City and to be there on ‘Sunrise One’ or as it’s known ‘Rotation One’ on the new 5D calendar.

The day of first occupation has been chosen carefully and a small yet meaningful ceremony takes place in the form of a blessing and initiation of the love and truth that is to be shared from this day forth in ‘The City of Light’.

The first settlers were chosen specifically for their ability to live in a space of love; they are those who had overcome living unconsciously and are free of their lower ego selves; they have all given up the need to live by controlling others and the outside world.

Careful consideration was given to the energy that the City’s first settlers would bring knowing it would create the footprint of things to come and that it was important to lay the energy of unconditional love and truth as the foundation of the way of life for City dwellers from that moment on.

The first settlers had met many times before ‘Sunrise One’ and a synergy of thought ran deep within each of them as they knew that they had committed to take responsibility for their own state and their own actions at all times as well as to have unending respect for others. They had committed to each other in advance that if for any reason they found themselves struggling to maintain their state that they would seek support and healing time from the others.

The ‘City of Light’ lives by no rules and no laws. The first settlers agreed a flexible and fluid constitution for the life that they wished to live and that is a life of self-awareness, truth, service to others, empathy with emotional freedom for self, cleanliness of environment both internal and external, the nurturing of nature and all that is with unconditional love, unconditional forgiveness of self and others and non-attachment to people or things. They also heartily agreed to share and give freely to consistently grow their own and the City’s great loving energy.

Duties are shared willingly and evenly ensuring a variety of tasks and a variety of people with whom the tasks are carried out. Disputes are of course very rare in a 5D experience and, if ever a need were to arise a “Founder” will oversee the way ahead and provide help for anybody who needed support with challenges to their energy.

The Temple, The Exhibition Centre and The Great Pyramids need settling in time so before the first visitors came all systems were checked and rechecked to ensure a smooth operation on the 'Sunrise' of the first visitor experience.

The first settlers practiced their healing skills on each other, utilising crystals and sound in the Temple, ensuring that the whole healing process was perfected ready for all the visitors who requested healing.

The preparation and cooking of food has been practised over and over to ensure every detail of quality, taste and nutritional value thus ensuring that the settlers physical bodies are kept in prime operating condition. On 'community food days', food is served in 'The Great Pyramids' and is considered a special time of gathering and sharing words, a time of open dialogue, of 'informal chat', and of course sharing of the connected energy of those present over the taking of food.

The dwellings are now being lived in for the first time and all their eco systems are in full operation. All our energy requirements and water needs are met and our waste is all recycled and re-circulated through natural filters, as well as through the lakes, reservoir and pond system located throughout the City.

The First Settlers love the experience of living and sleeping in the Pyramids; everyone shares how magical it is and how they so look forward to their rest and rejuvenation time when the sun goes down. The family houses have also undergone trials and all is looking good for family members to move into these beautifully constructed homes.

The truth is, as with all aspects of the City, planning was of paramount importance in getting the City's first dwellers settled and ready to be of service to others who would be coming to the City as day visitors or to stay for healing.

All has gone very smoothly and it's amazing how this unique band of individuals, who were chosen to be the first settlers, has worked and lived so well together especially considering that they had been living in such a diverse variety of ways in the 3D world. The great news is that they have already begun to adapt to the timeless, money-less environment of 'The First City of Light'; in fact, they are already such a great example of what's possible for all of humanity as they have successfully set the energy of how it can really be possible to live at one with self, with others and with Mother Earth here in the fifth dimension.

May this be, not the first, but the first of many 'City's of Light'. May you, or your offspring, be amongst the inhabitants blessed to give and to share in the energy of a human race who are living in harmony under the umbrella of unconditional love for each other and the planet. May you choose this for this incarnation, on this beautiful blue planet, know to us all as 'Mother Earth'.

'A Spiritual Calling'

Part Two – Getting Started!

Chapter 9

Getting Started – The 1st Family

Many people ask ‘How’ questions and one of the biggest is - How are you going to get all this started? This is a great question and in this chapter and chapter 10 I am going to share some answers, answers I trust that could even call you into action to become part of the great and growing City of Light Family.

For any seed to germinate it needs the right conditions, it already has the embedded codes of the universe deep within it waiting for the right conditions to start its journey of growth to fulfil its life purpose. The City of Light is no different; the seed has been dormant in humanity for millennia, awaiting the right universal moment to awaken and for once again humanity to grow towards the light.

Microscopic cells within each seed come to life first; in fact one cell has to take the lead followed by the others. This vision is part of the human awakening process and, as one cell moved towards the light sure enough others awoke as well and became part of the process. Those cells are now forming what we fondly call 'The First Family' around 15 people who feel drawn to awaken together and truly live this vision for the future of humanity.

To this end the first to awaken chose to move to Glastonbury, the heart of what you might call the place of pilgrimage of British spirituality. Their outcomes are threefold:

1. To commit to work on themselves, to grow and expand their awareness towards enlightenment and to live their multidimensional selves. To this end what is known as the 'Expand Towards Enlightenment' experiential education programme' has already been launched.
2. The First Family gather together, find a home to live in living as a community and overcoming any challenges along the way as an example to others of what's possible. They live and grow with the desire to work with 'Mother Earth' in a joint venture with her to share all of our gifts harmoniously from a place of unconditional love.

The First Family has two projects; the first is to maintain the 'City of Light Experience' a visitor centre here in Glastonbury itself. The purpose of the centre is to give each person that enters the opportunity to learn, understand and even have a personal experience of what life in the 'City of Light' will be like as described at the beginning of this book.

The second part of their project is to work on the bigger vision of the creation of 'The City of Light' itself and to start all the relevant work that would go into such a project.

To this end we are actively seeking those that believe this is their path and wish to join in and become part of the First Family. If you think this is you please fill in the application form online and we will arrange a mutually convenient time to meet up and share more of what joining the 'First Family' will look like.

Chapter 10

The World Wide Support Family

If you are a person that right now is looking to grow and expand, to become more conscious, to learn and live a life having integrated your 'Multidimensional Self' or indeed are someone that simply cares about others, humanity, Mother Earth and all of her other tribe's, then getting involved in this project could be for you.

Hundreds of people have joined in already and more and more each day are fascinated and want to get involved in some way. To this end we would love to welcome you to what we call our 'Support Family'.

At the heart of the 'Support Family' are those that are working on themselves within the 'City of Light Educational Programme'.

A small number of people have a massive spiritual awakening moment in their life and many share this in their writings and books, but for the vast majority of us it is a very slow often lifelong or multi life process.

Humanity has, particularly in the western world seen us live quite separate lives mostly living in separate homes living out our own experiences.

The City of Light is a project that brings us together in community and harmony and a good way to experience this is to not only learn about it but to teach it as well.

For each student on the 'Educational Programme' there are opportunities to become a teacher as well. The programme consists of 21 short books and 14 videos and most importantly each student gets a mentor to help and support them to learn and experience more of themselves. As you move through the programme, if you want to, you too can become a mentor, someone that helps someone else learn and experience more of them.

The Support Family are also welcome to visit the City of Light Glastonbury and share time and energy with others there as well as partake of the other experiences available at the centre for a first hand feeling of what life is like in the 'City of Light'.

To join the City of Light 'Support Family' please fill in the application online.

Chapter 11

Politics, Economics & Social Structures

Many ask questions about the inner structure of the 'First Family' and what, if they join in, are they committing to. We have to remember that the 'First Family' and residents of the 'City' are all about sharing unconditional love and our true selves as part of the whole. So, from this perspective, and of course this in itself is an evolution, most of these things will be worked out as we move towards them.

At this stage we now have the visitor centre, what we call 'The City of Light Glastonbury Experience' and whilst we have found several properties, in which the first Family would live and share, as yet none have come to fruition.

If you are considering joining the family we realize that it is important for you to understand more of the ethos and more about the practical side of the project. So please find here more details of what we are considering right now prior to us finding the perfect property.

There is no great plan of how any of this will work; it is all based on the values of being responsible for our own state, being out of ego and meeting the needs of the whole.

To this end I have created the following documents which allow you to see the starting point of each of the important topics. These are things that we will need to consider and make decisions on and I trust that you will give some thought to what living in a loving place could bring into reality.

Each of these three important aspects of 'First Family' life is open to discussion by those joining the family. Always remember we are merely laying the foundations here of what living in a state of unity and love consciousness looks like on a practical day to day basis before and during the ascension process.

The left hand column represents consideration of the old human ways, that of duality and separation, what is known as the world of the third dimension or 3D.

The right hand column is a glimpse to consider of the new age, the way of community, sharing, giving and of course unconditional love itself.

This we can only achieve by expanding our awareness, our own consciousness towards living in a more enlightened state. This is known as living the integrated multidimensional self, capable of living and experiencing the fifth dimension, or 5D, whilst still in physical form.

At all times no matter what our focus in the case ‘Family Politics’, we need to be sure to keep our attention on the BIG picture of creating the City of Light, the Temple of Healing and the eco-society as well as remembering that we are looking to operate from a 5D state of unity & love.

The Economics and How It Might Work: -

We need to recognise that we have one foot still in the 3D world while we ascend with the Planet into 5D. This means having a practical hat on to ensure we can operate, while still more 3D, with the available resources we have at our means.

This will give us the opportunity to practice and experiment individually with living more 5D by creating an inner world for ourselves. The group commits to do its utmost to create a 5D experience in which we can live and operate.

The giving of ourselves and our economic resources to this experiment unconditionally is at the core of the first transitional steps from 3D to 5D. Yet I think it wise at this, the start-up stage, that capital and income should be treated somewhat differently.

There are three different scenarios in which 'Family Members' might join in the experiment in relation to the funds they will bring with them.

- a. Capital only
- b. Capital & Income
- c. Income but no Capital

This is how we could deal with each type of person coming to the Family economically...

Capital Only

Many communities have had an array of challenges when utilising people's capital to finance their venture. We have to remember we are not as yet any of us operating fully 5D and as a result of that will still run our 3D separation patterns that include the need for safety and security and many people meet those needs by wanting to 'hold on to their cash' or at least feel they could get it back if things were to not work out.

If someone comes with 'Capital Only', that money would be utilised to pay a person's way within the Family living circle. It would be invested in a joint account and all interest accrued would go directly into the foundation and treated as income. The capital would have funds drawn off it each month to pay a person's way by an agreed amount.

This means that if someone changes their mind and wishes to leave the Family, they could do so taking their remaining capital with them. Although they would have no recourse to any of the funds they have put into the foundation returned to them, which would include their monthly donation and any interest earned on their capital.

If a person's Capital amount is small and starts to run out, that person will need to make the decision to switch from 'Capital Investment' to 'Income Investment' to pay their way. They would need to find a way to make that happen as the rest of the Family is not bound to keep them in the Family without inputting funds to cover their costs. So it's important to understand it is possible someone might have to leave the Family if they cannot support themselves financially at this critical first stage of the creation of the City of Light.

Capital & Income

If a person brings capital and income to the project wishing to become a 'Family Member' I propose we keep these separate. The capital element would be 'locked in', in a way that the Foundation takes and utilises any interest that the money accrues. I propose low risk investments with money on demand or penalty less low time scale withdraw ability.

This way if a person bringing 'Capital and Income' to the venture feels that the project is no longer for them they can ask to leave and have their Capital returned in full although again this would be excluding any interest that will have been or will need to be paid to the foundation.

The capital will be retained in a joint account/s and a simple contract would ensure security of that capital. This would also leave any individual at any time the ability to decide to give over their capital to the foundation on a non – refundable permanent nature if and when they feel comfortable to do so allowing the Foundation to use the funds in any way they feel is appropriate to best support the project. The income part of what they bring to the Family would be used in exactly the same way as c. below.

Income Only

If a person brings ‘Income Only’ to the Family their net income could go directly into the Foundation funds to meet the needs of the Home, ‘The City of Light Glastonbury Experience’ as well as the creation of The City of Light Project itself. No funds would be returnable once parted with even if someone choses to leave the Family.

If a person’s situation changes and their income ceases, the Family will discuss and mutually decide on the future of that individual although it should be totally clear, the project is about giving not taking from the Family and financial independence is of paramount importance as we have clearly seen that dependents have the potential to drag the rest of the project down.

Transitional Steams of Income

There will be additional possible streams of income in the form of business style operations within the project. These income streams could also represent the Income of an individual based on them working within the part of the Family where that income is derived from. In effect businesses that are operating within the Family will need people working for them and this could provide a person's income towards the Foundation.

Other possible streams of income

Events

The potential to facilitate events is huge, especially as we have lots of Family experience of supplying them. It is my belief though that we need to share a unified set of events and that we could start with the 'Experiential Education Program' and in particular all Family members should take the course themselves, which can include an event as well as the Home Study Course. The outcome of doing this is to put us all on the same page with a good basic level of understanding of 5D and living multidimensional.

Clearly those awakening have very diverse experiences and views, so even if it means a slight step backwards for some entering the Family, by seriously undertaking the course for their own growth, I believe there will be an enhanced and powerful opportunity for the family becoming a solid 'us' in alignment with each other and the ultimate teachings with in the City of Light.

We also have to remember that it's 'integration' of what we have learned and more importantly that we individually and collectively demonstrate such by the way we show up.

There is a need to demonstrate that we are an effective and cohesive Family based on the principles of living with love, understanding and compassion of each other and our beautiful planet and by doing so we create fantastic energy that will inspire others to take action and move towards the project for their own growth as well as to share.

What will potentially hold us back is individuals who have the capacity to intellectually store information but do not 'practice what they preach' within the Family unit. We have to lead by example and be massively aware of our own patterns and be open to have real, honest and truthful feedback sessions.

The great thing is that events could take place in both the house and at the 'Glastonbury Experience'. All income would be by contributionn and we would share transparently on costs of such events as well as a lower/higher price range of similar events, thus helping people value their participation both for their growth and their ability to support the project in financial terms.

B & B

Again the potential here is great if we make wise choices on the properties we choose ensuring we can have visitors stay over when possible. Living with the family and joining in the rituals, ceremonies and practises of daily life within the family are a key way to gain new family members, be they coming to live, or be part of the support family. All stays would be again on a contribution bases although we would share transparently our costs as well as a range of local B & B costs to help people decide about the size of any contribution they make.

Education

It is possible over time to build a wide range of educational programmes. My belief is to find out what people want and then supply it. So my suggestion is to start by building experience of operating the Home Study, mentor based 'Experiential Education Programme'.

Over time we will of course develop and my belief is that we need to start simple and learn as we go, remembering that we are learning ourselves of course and that as always we need to keep our attention on the BIG vision of the 'City of Light'.

Healing

We have a raft of healing experience within the Family which of course can serve our visitors and ourselves well. It is of course possible that we have both healing rooms at the house and the 'Glastonbury Experience' and support as many people as we can.

I believe we should again not be diverse in presenting the purpose of healing and keep our focus well and truly on the 'City of Light Project'. The ethos of the 'Healing Temple' part of the project is to help people heal their wounded unconscious, that's to say, help them release stuck energies and to live more consciously.

Sure we can practice other more advanced stuff on each other to learn and push the boundaries of our own consciousness and again to those outside of the Family we need to show distinctly and accurately what we are helping them achieve and we need to do this on a united front.

Meditation

Once again we have a raft of mediation experience and of course this needs to become a part of the Family way of life to keep us fully conscious and connected.

From a visitors view, the house will offer them when visiting, the opportunity to be involved in the sessions whilst from the 'Glastonbury Experience' point of view I believe we need to follow the vision again demonstrating that by doing continuous daily sessions, meditation is a big part of the way ahead for us all and will be so in the 'City of Light'.

I am more open as to what form of meditation we do and in fact variety could be a great thing here having different people lead the meditation session.

Card Readings

Many people are fascinated to find out about their future and many have tarot card readings.

The 'City of Light' ethos is that the 'now' holds more importance than the future and uncovering through the use of 'Divination Cards' what patterns need to come to the surface from the unconscious for consideration now is what we are about.

By helping people become aware of their disempowering thoughts, beliefs or even opinion's as well as patterns of behaviour, which these cards do so well when a person is having a reading, we will be fulfilling a crucial part of the 'City of Light' vision in a very simplistic way.

This is a great service people can have and contribute to the foundation for, just as they would pay for having others types of card readings.

Hospitality

Central to the ethos of the 'City of Light' is hospitality and to meet this core part of the experience we want to give our visitors, we will be looking to open a 'healthy' coffee shop / restaurant to facilitate not only the visitors on short stay or all day visits, we will also be able to meet the food requirements of those staying longer term and of course those simply passing by that are attracted to the centre. This would be a non-alcohol environment!

There are many ways we can utilise food as hospitality and get to share time and food together with our guests utilising this shared time to help others as well as sharing the 'City of Light' vision and message.

The idea of a big dining table, around which we all share food has proved so successful in the past we will be looking for ways we might include this type of meal sharing by seeking contributions to share breakfasts, lunches as well as dinner in the evening, which would be something that would be completely different for Glastonbury.

The Social Polices and How It Might Work:

Family members are all open and flexible and agree on a way we can operate so that when we get into the 1st home we have something in place that we are trialling and learning from on day 1.

There are many things to consider here is a starter list...

- The Way ahead – The Glastonbury Experience
- The Way Ahead – The Bigger Vision – Creating the ‘City of Light’
- Do we need individual roles & responsibilities?
- Do we need a social leader?
- What needs to happen to select such leaders?
- Consideration to length of time in office?
- Consideration to should decisions be unanimous or majority or any other alternative such as the leader or a smaller group making the decisions.
- Consideration to House Layout

- Consideration to House Keeping Shared and Individual Areas
- Consideration to Growing and/or Buying Food
- Consideration to Power Consumption Eco and record keeping
- Consideration to Self-sufficiency

- Do we need 'Open Discussion Sessions'?
- Anything else?

Chapter 12

Questions & Answers

Q. – What are the different dimensions and how can I learn about them?

A. – One of my greatest mentors has without doubt been Suzanne Lie PhD, her work is very inspiring and she has personally helped me create this vision. Sue shares her work freely on the internet and here are the links to my initial studies. I suggest you take it step by step and really soak it all in, for certain your awareness will expand incredibly go to www.multidimensions.com

Q. – Why the Glastonbury Experience?

A. – The vision is both flexible and fluid, it represents an ideal, something to aim for. Glastonbury is, as you may be aware, considered by many as being the spiritual heart of the UK and many people travel there to share a spiritual path.

There are also many festivals that bring hundreds of thousands of visitors to Glastonbury so being where like minded people gather makes a lot of sense and, the seeds, as we call them, are more likely to be around that space and join our Family.

Glastonbury is the perfect place to create the 'First Family'. A home where a group of people live together to work on a common vision. Getting the 'First Family' together to work and maintain the 'City of Light Experience' whilst growing the 'Family' is our first challenge and will be a great example to others of what's possible.

Q. - Why are you naming this project, this vision, 'The City of Light'?

A. - Who 'we all really are', is our own light and the unconditional love of everything that is. As multidimensional beings our 5th dimensional experience is of our 'light body' as opposed to our 3rd dimensional 'physical body' experience. With the ascension of the planet to the 5th dimension in progress we, that's Mother Earth and all her life, will become as one in a 5th dimensional experience. If you saw the film 'Avatar', Pandora is an example of a planet in a dimension or two about that which Earth is currently held in.

Q. - What is your most important reason, your key personal driver, for doing this?

A. - It's my journey; other incarnations have seen me as a leader, a warrior and a priest at the cutting edge of change. My incarnation into this life, at this time, is no coincidence; it's my mission along with others to help and support those ready to ascend with Mother Earth to the 5th dimension.

Q. – If you had to sum up what you see as the average person's problems today, how would you do that and how does 'The City of Light' help people overcome those problems?

A. – That's a great question and it has a two part answer. Firstly most of us at some point in our life experience, mental, physical and or emotional pain. Few see the link between these, in other words could you be open to the fact that physical pain actually derives from emotional challenges both past and present. If we open up to this possibility healing ourselves of both can become a reality.

The Temple, and the work carried out in it, is for the express purpose of participating in your own healing. Part two is to educate ourselves to become more aware of our true potential, this means unlearning some of what we have learned and expanding our consciousness which we do best by experiencing it for ourselves. This is not about being a follower; it's about realisation through education followed by personal experience. All of this is at the core of what 'The City of Light' is about.

Q. - How specifically would the energy of 'The City of Light' differ from other cities?

A. – Completely different – Life in the 5th dimension is one of unconditional love. Humanities journey has seen it spend many millennia in the lower dimensions, leaving humans searching outside of themselves for what you might call 'intellectual love' which is, of course, not love at all.

When you walk the streets of a current modern city notice how you feel separate to everything, that's a 3rd dimensional experience of separation and duality. The 5th dimensional 'City of Light' will feel as though everything and everyone is connected energetically.

Q. - Does it differ from existing eco communities?

A. – Yes and No – The communities I have visited so far that are eco see the value of looking after and caring for Mother Earth beautifully but they are not necessarily aiming at living with a more expanded consciousness at the heart of their programme.

The one exception is ‘The Federation of Damanhur’ in Northern Italy. Their experience of 35+ years is proving invaluable to us as we move to create the ‘City of Light’ here in the UK. They are a beautiful community of around 1,000 people who have created an eco-society with both ethical and spiritual values building the incredible temple of Humankind. www.damanhur.org

Q. - How would the ‘moneyless city’ work?

A. – It’s a great question and one I get asked regularly. I see becoming ‘moneyless’ as transitional. Of course we will have to trust in the moment and in the flow, and know that all is as it’s meant to be.

The plan is to have a financial fund initially, held outside of the City which utilises the energy of money that exists today. Slowly though our outcome would be to wean ourselves off this until we are totally independent and self-sufficient and that we thrive in an abundant, moneyless place becoming totally self-sufficient.

Q. - Are you planning for there to be no time in ‘The City of Light’ and if so how would that work?

A. – Indeed yes! Time in the 3rd dimension is as we know and experience it. Think of your dream time and how that differs from your ‘awake’ time.

We are conscious in our sleep time in the 4th dimension hence we experience time very differently. Time in the 5th dimension is different again and once we are fully plugged into it, time as we know it now will not exist.

Q. - Specifically what foods would residents/visitors eat?

A. – To maintain a 5th dimensional experience we need to feed our physical bodies with what it can easily assimilate into usable energy. If we don't do this our energy will drop as our bodies work hard to digest complex foods.

Health is key to a 5th dimensional experience and this takes creating a very close connection between Man and the plant world.

Q. - Would alcohol be allowed there?

A. – Alcohol is one of the most difficult things for our physical bodies to assimilate. Added to this most people consume drugs of one sort or another to change their physical state. In the 5th dimension there's no need for this as the 5th dimensional state is higher than any drug can induce in a human 3rd dimensional state.

Q. - Could you outline more how the project is financed?

A. – The simple answer is voluntary contributions.

The more complex question is what happens to the ‘ins’ and ‘outs’ during the transitional time?

Before I talk about that let me re emphasise that the long term plan is for the City to be moneyless. I feel strongly about this as I watch the world, here in 2011, with its many financial challenges and I contemplate on how it could be that its financial collapse could be the instigation of our transition to the 5th dimension.

In our 3rd dimensional experience money plays a huge part. In fact I believe that money is energy itself. And, the energy of money is affected by the 3rd dimensional laws leaving us with the human experience of separation, and therefore the haves and have not’s.

I believe that by raising both our individual and collective consciousness around money we can manifest into creation the abundance of whatever we need.

So, as the City is incarnate in the 3rd dimension it will need 3rd dimensional money to purchase the initial materials and other resources it needs. Contributions can either be a single contribution or a regular contribution that people feel drawn to make. Our outcome is for them to feel that they are contributing to become a part of the whole project for life.

Sharing of our love energy or sharing of our knowledge or skill is another way of becoming part of the oneness on this great journey. For my part I have decided to share all of my time and gifts in exchange for a monetary contribution and I will do this either by way of recorded material or in person.

Where a person feels 'called' to fully commit to this 5th dimensional experience they may be prepared to give up their 3rd dimensional experience and resources and fully 'move' to become a resident in the city. In other words they may decide to liquidate their 3rd dimensional assets to contribute to the creation of the city and for it to become their home for the rest of their time on Mother Earth.

This finance is managed within the foundation, held outside of the city, and these funds, together with all contributions, will fund 'The City of Light', its systems and its needs during its transitional period. I am committed to placing all my 3rd dimensional resources into this fund.

If you would like to join me, as a 'Founder Guardian', and share in the responsibility for 'managing' the accumulated funds held within the foundation for the creation of the City please contact me so that we together can ensure that the transition is smooth and that it is moving quickly towards self-sufficiency.

Q. - How are the bills paid once people live in the city?

A. – Once you live in the City there are no bills; the Founder Guardians oversee that all the City's needs are met by funds held in its foundation until we become a completely moneyless society.

Q. - What do you see as the importance of having an 'Exhibition'?

A. – Our 3rd dimensional ego is very powerful and whilst it is easy to see the advantage of living an ego free experience it is not simple for most humans to just 'let it go'. The Exhibition helps the ego to logically make sense of everything so that it can let go of the futility of its protection system and allow itself to awaken to its higher consciousness and experience all that is.

Q. - Do you see 'The City of Light' being just for the spiritually evolved?

A. – Certainly not, there are many humans right now on the edge of awakening; these open people are of course welcome to come and share in the City's higher dimensional healing energy and continue that individualised experience of awakening to the oneness of higher consciousness.

If people wish to come and reside in the City, part of their journey will be a period of acclimatisation within its eastern sector where they can be schooled, participate in their own healing and prepare themselves for full City life if indeed they feel that this works for them.

To be one of the founder guardians a person must feel that they have already reached a level of 'awakening' to 5th dimensional consciousness.

Q. - How many people do you see living there?

A. – There is no set number, the City's location will accommodate its growth.

Q. - What would a typical day be for a resident?

A. – Depending on which part of the City you live in, your day will be taken up by giving to yourself, by continuing your healing where necessary through study and practice, and by giving of yourself to others wherever and whenever necessary.

Q. - How many visitors might you expect?

A. – Numbers are not important, those that are drawn will come; there is no attachment in the 5th dimension.

Q. - What would a typical residential visitors experience be?

A. – Peace, love and harmony within oneself, connection with others, time in and connection with nature and all other life forms, including Mother Earth and through her to a higher level of consciousness.

Q. - What might that cost them?

A. – Visitors are open to giving up and letting go of holding onto their 3rd dimensional resources in exchange for the ultimate human ‘being’ experience.

Q. - What do you believe is the timescale from planning to building and to ‘the first sunrise’?

A. – Again, time itself is not important. As the energy towards the creation of the City grows momentum will be gained and everything will happen as it’s meant to.

It may not be exactly as it’s written here, as whilst a plan may be essential in the 3rd dimension it’s certainly not necessary in the higher dimensions; here, everything is as it's meant to be, in the flow of all that is.

Q. - What might a day in 'The Temple' look like?

A. – The Temple is a serene place, a place of truth, trust and let go. A day visitor may come only to bathe in its energy, to experience the peace, joy and inner love that as humans we all have at our source.

Healing itself takes an indeterminate time finally allowing us to awaken to all that is. A day visitor will glimpse the potential of this for themselves as well as the experience of the oneness of the 5th dimension.

Chapter 13

Vision of 'The Temple'

Based on a channeled view of an 'Atlantean Temple' the following gives a good visual as well as a feel of the Temple –

The Atlantean Temple of Healing was a circular building. The only light which penetrated the Temple came through a vast dome on the roof. This dome was adjustable so that sunlight, either pure or filtered, could pour in through the roof whenever required. The dome could also be closed so that no sunlight could enter the Temple at all.

The entrance to the Temple was rectangular. It was built of white, glistening stone; stone which looked as if it were filled with mica and colour, and the heavy crossbeam of stone which spanned the doorway had sculptured upon it a white swan with its noble head raised upwards, moving gracefully outward.

There were groups of pillars composed of the precious white stone, which was bendable but could not be broken, which were moulded to form a perfect circular upright, and the steps were rectangular, in the same white glistening stone as the building itself.

There were no gates, or walls to guard its gardens. The gardens were filled with blossoms; great beds of marigolds in their season, tulips, sunflowers, and many of the small, sweetly-perfumed roses. All gave of their glory for the healing of the people.

Just inside the entrance was a large Timekeeper Crystal.

This powerful crystal protected the Temple from any harmful vibrations and negativity. It would not allow any person to pass inside the Temple unless that person had a genuine - and pure - reason for doing so. The crystal knew everything; nothing could be hidden!

Within the entrance there was a large hallway both to the right and left. Round the central circle were to be found two wide passages leading to the three special temples, which were to be found at the far end of the central building.

These temples were also circular. They were not entered, nor was there any entrance, from the main temple, but the entrances were through doorways heavily curtained, opening upon these passages, which stretched to the right and the left of the main temple.

The central circular temple was a small special temple, where the healers studied and were trained, and on the right of that temple was the Temple of Teaching; on the left was the Temple of Research - not research in the sense that we use it today in connection with material things, but research into all which concerned the healing of the body and soul.

All the teaching was undertaken in the Temple of Teaching. All the training of the healers, where they were used as instruments and were not required to make use of their mind or brain, was undertaken in the third Temple.

Students who came to the Temple of Healing were obliged to become proficient in one of these arts, and were allocated and placed, either in the Temple of Teaching, in the Temple of Healing or in the Temple of Research. They were not allowed to follow the three courses at once; they had to prove their proficiency in their first choice before they were permitted to take a second course, in one of the other temples.

The central Temple of Healing was built over a Lake, and you will find its counterpart very often today in the swimming pools which can be covered by a wooden floor, but in this case the floor was of amethyst, warm to the touch of naked feet, and radiant with light and power.

At the entrance to the central temple were the robbing rooms for the priest healers, the students and the novices; all built of glistening white stone, and, although austere, very beautiful in harmony of colour and design.

Between the robbing rooms, which were very similar to cubicles one would find in Swimming Baths, was a passageway where there were further cubicles which were used for the cleansing and purification of the clients' bodies.

Healing, in the time of Atlantis, did not take place in a matter of a few minutes as is the case today; a client would be required to visit the Temple many times for the purification of their physical body. Their hair was cut to the nape of their neck during their period of healing and, following baths in plain spring water, they passed through baths of perfumed warm water, before being given the white linen robe, in which they had to appear before their healer.

In the first of the smaller chambers of healing, the client had to pass through the purification of the etheric body, and there, the healers, with their powers of clairvoyance and intuition, strengthened by their service in the Temple, would look for any dark places, or lack of light in the chakra and in the etheric body as a whole.

The client would only be permitted to go forward into the next healing chamber when the priest-healer in charge of this particular room could report that the client's etheric body was completely cleansed and full of light.

In the next cubicle most of the clients would spend very much longer than in the first one, for here the weariness of the mind must be released, and as the mind relaxed and the body, in harmony, relaxed, the client would talk to his teacher, telling him of the anxieties that troubled him and the weariness of the soul which oppressed him. This is akin to what today we call psycho-analysis and it can be a very long process indeed. The work, therefore, undertaken in this mental room was of a truly specialized nature.

Only the greater - and more experienced - priests handled these clients, and many hours of the day were given up to complete relaxation and pleasant conversation, and the eating of fruits for the cleansing of the physical body. In particular the clients would drink citrus fruit juices and spring water, which played an important role in the overall healing process.

When the client had passed all the necessary tests, he would move out of this second temple and into the temple for the healing of the physical body, but not until the negative side of his personality - hatred, jealousy, envy and selfishness - had been completely overcome; for as long as any envy, hatred, or jealousy agitates within the mind, the body cannot be considered whole and cleansed.

In the great central temple there were three daily healing sessions. In a gallery which ran round the temple below the level of the windows, were men and women students, who were taught wonderful music and singing, and in this gallery they would sing rhythmic chants and spiritual songs whilst the healing sessions were taking place in the temple below.

Twelve healers under one tutor-priest worked upon twelve clients at any one time. The beds, upon which the clients lay, were erected on white marble, built like rectangular boxes; the top was also made out of the same precious stone which could not be broken or cut, and each bed was composed of the stone of one colour, representing one ray.

When the client left the last healing room, he was given a six-pointed star in the colour of the bed which he must occupy. This star he would give to the priest in charge of the clients of the temple, and it was strapped upon his forehead by the priest so that the moment he entered the great healing chamber, the healer-priest who belonged to that particular healing table would welcome his client.

As soon as the client lay upon the healing table, the radiations of his aura would project, as an emanation round his head and body, thus lighting up the whole of the corner of the room where he was lying, and opening for himself the power to absorb the ethers from the soil and the surrounding light ethers. If, however, the client was not able to radiate these ethers, then the healers standing beside that particular bed would stand motionless in meditation, until all the other eleven clients had been treated by their healers, and the client would then have to return to the preparation on the mental plane, to learn a further period of relaxation.

This rarely occurred though because normally all the clients were prepared and completely relaxed by the time that they reached the great healing chamber.

There were four healers to each bed; the Priest Initiate on the right, the second priest on the left, the third and fourth priests at the feet. The Priest Initiate directed the healing and the two priests at the feet poured power through the client's feet from the palm of their hands.

Each healer wore a robe of the colour of his own ray, and a cloak over his shoulders, also of the same colour. During the healing session this cloak, taken by the corners, would be turned back fastening at the hem by a jeweled clasp. When the healing session was completed, the clients were allowed to enjoy a period of relaxation for approximately thirty minutes. At the end of this period the healers would leave their clients and the priest-in-charge of the Temple would lead the clients back to the robbing room, where they would be given a meal of honey in the comb, crushed corn and milk, and sent away to their own homes.

About the Author

Many find their real life's path in the most obscure place and at a time when it's said they are ready. Anthony's life changing moment happened at the age of 47 in 2001 when a complete stranger shared with him her belief that he was a chosen person and he had a mission to complete in this lifetime. It was months later that this sharing really hit home and Anthony finally accepted a new way of life and started the journey of a more spiritual way of being.

Brought up in London UK, Anthony was street wise and far from spiritually aware, yet this new experience seemed to provide the missing piece of life's jigsaw. Just 10 years later he wrote this vision, what he calls the reason for this earthly life. It's a calling to serve the greater good both for humanity and all we live and share our beautiful planet earth with.

His dream is that you in some way personally benefit and even share in this vision of a new way of being, creating a new earthly civilisation of oneness and unconditional love.

Thanks for video 2 and the 2nd part of the written course.

The descriptions of what's behind the various red doors struck so many chords. Uncannily, or then again, maybe absolutely normally I'm seeing that most of us are completely unconscious.

I came to the conclusion today that I have had enough of my little game that I have been playing and hanging on to for so many years of feeling, thinking and acting less than I am – when I think of all the pain and waste this has caused it would make me feel ashamed except that I am putting that behind me too because there is nothing I can do about it except to improve.

Of course some days I have more these positive thoughts than on other days but I am more aware of things now and just getting to this point seems like a big step in the right direction.

In your last message you asked if I understood and accepted that my current situation is the manifestations of my fears and thoughts. The answer is yes I do understand this and I know that it's me that has created everything in my life.

The next stage then is to let go to my attachment to the past mistakes, to put down that baggage and let go in order to move forward...
